

Autumn on the Trail

Words and music by Douglas B. Greene 1998 © all rights reserved

G
When it's autumn on the trail,
C D
And the leaves have turned to flame;
C
I seem to hear the breeze,
G
Wanderin' through the trees,
D
Whispering your name.

G
All along my lonely ride;
C
So clearly I recall;
C G
How we traveled side by side,
D
It was autumn on the trail;
G
That you loved most of all.

CHORUS

C
Do you ever think of me?
G
Do you remember?
D
The lovely plans we made,
C D7
By the campfire's last glowing ember.

G
I'll be longing to return,
ECHO: How I'm longing to return,
C
To the happy days we knew.
G
Oh my darling how I yearn,
D
When it's autumn on the trail,
G
To be sharing it with you.

CHORUS

Douglas B. Green (born March 20, 1946), better known by his stage name Ranger Doug, is an American musician, arranger and award-winning Western music songwriter, best known for his works with Western music and the group Riders in the Sky in which he plays guitar and sings lead and baritone vocals. He is also an exceptionally accomplished yodeler. With the Riders, he is billed as "Ranger Doug — The Idol of American Youth" and "Governor of the Great State of Rhythm".

Wikipedia.